From TVGasm.com

"Possible premise for next season: all of the various role players from the first 5 seasons of '24' who disappear without mention or are never officially confirmed to be dead--behrooz, dina, aaron the secret service guy, sec. def. heller, etc.--return in zombie form and conspire to kill off the entire population of los angeles using the sinister 'mystery death' method, which involves unmarked panel vans and seedy anonymous motels and leaves no trace other than the occasional cell phone in the grass. of course, the only defense against the zombie squad's e-vil designs are aviator glasses of badness, a stealth hoodie of infiltration, a messenger bag of intrepid readiness, or a high-quality, blood-stanching intrigue overcoat (preferably in egg-shell white)."

Hehehehe, Aside from the hilarity of the premise, love the inclusion of all Jack's accoutrements. Special guest appearance by Audry Raines' overcoat in her bleeding episode. Apparently thats the overcoat she wears in all her covert ops.
